

Dining Tables and Mini Desk
Florence Knoll

FLORENCE KNOLL DINING TABLES Influenced by her groundbreaking collection of occasional tables and executive desks, the Florence Knoll Dining Tables and Mini Desk are clear in their sheer visual clarity. The designs are cool and angular, reflecting the objective perfectionism of the early 1960s. The Dining Table is available in a variety of marble tops and can also be used as a meeting table or personal desk. The Mini Desk is available with a marble or glass top.

FLORENCE KNOLL Considered a seminal leader of 20th-century design, Florence Knoll grew up among designers. She studied architecture with Mies van der Rohe and gained her earliest professional experience with Marcel Breuer and Bauhaus founder, Walter Gropius. In partnership with her husband, Hans, she championed the Bauhaus approach to furniture design at Knoll: to offer objects that reflect design, technological innovation and mass production. Her intellect and keen eye brought Knoll to the forefront of modern design, thus creating the legacy that continues today. For her extraordinary contributions to architecture and design, Florence Knoll was accorded the National Endowment for the Arts' prestigious 2002 National Medal of Arts.
